Castle of Yesterday.

In the Valley of Contentment, just beyond the Hills of Old,
Where the streams are always silver and the sunshine always gold:
Where the hour is ever morning and the skies are never gray,
In the yellow haze of springtime stands the Castle Yesterday.

Oh, the seasons that we spent there when the whole wide world was young;
The friends we've had as maid and ind,
the songs that we have sung;
The echoes of their music cannot quite have died away,
But still must thrill the rooftree of the Castle Yesterday.

And the loving hearts we knew there in the time of trust and truth, Surely still they waft behind us in the Pantheon of youth!

But the angel of the valley at the portal bars our way,
And a faming sword forbids us from the Castle Yesterday.

When the pilgrimage is ended, may we turn then, may we change.

To the vanished and familiar from the present and the strange.

Who so chooses to his heaven—I shall be content to stay.

Where the ghosts of dead years wander through the halls of Yesterday.
